the 1990s, the number of people in the United States who are obese has increased by 50 percent, and the rate of obesity among children has increased by 100 percent.

The 1990s obesity epidemic, which is still on the rise, has been linked to the increasing consumption of fast food and sedentary lifestyles. The fast-food industry has contributed to the obesity epidemic by offering high-calorie, high-fat, and high-sugar meals that are easy to eat on the go. At the same time, many people have become more sedentary, spending more time sitting at desks or in front of the television and less time exercising.

Obesity is a major public health concern because it is linked to a number of chronic diseases, including heart disease, diabetes, and certain types of cancer. It also has a significant impact on quality of life, leading to physical discomfort and psychological distress. Efforts to combat the obesity epidemic are focused on promoting healthy eating and increasing physical activity.

Palawan execs see mining push in GMA order

By Rodriguez Jorda

Manila (PAU) —

PHILIPINES — Palawan executives see a mining push in a recent order from Governor Miriam Defensor-Santiago.

The order, which was signed on July 10, directs the provincial government to "expedite the processing of mining applications."

Palawan executives, however, are skeptical of the order, saying it is only a "political statement."

They say the provincial government has no authority to approve mining applications, which are the province's main source of revenue.

Palawan executives also say the order is a "political statement" and not a "policy statement."

Overcrowding cause of infant deaths

Fact finding team says Ospital ng Makati accepted too many newborns

By John L. Garcia

MANILA—A fact-finding panel of health officials on Friday said that overcrowding in the Ospital ng Makati was the cause of infant deaths.

The panel, headed by Health Secretary Francisco Duque III, said that the hospital accepted too many newborns, leading to overcrowding and poor care.

The panel also said that the hospital's infrastructure was outdated and that the staff was overworked. It recommended that the hospital be closed and that a new facility be built.

Metro goes for efficient lighting

By Arnold Uy

MANILA—Metro Pacific Properties Inc. (MPPI) is upgrading its lighting system to be more energy-efficient. The company is replacing its old incandescent bulbs with energy-saving compact fluorescent bulbs (CFLs).

The company said that the new lighting system will save it a significant amount of money on electricity bills. It also said that the new system is more environmentally friendly.

The company is also installing motion sensors in some of its buildings to ensure that the lights are only on when needed. This will further reduce energy consumption.

Which is the right corporate brand equity for my service company?

By Edna L. Dela Cruz
 Manila, Philippines
 The corporate brand equity of a service company is a key factor in determining its success. It is the perceived value of the company's name, logo, and other branding elements. This value is built over time through consistent marketing and customer service. A strong corporate brand equity can lead to increased customer loyalty, higher prices, and a competitive advantage in the market.

What is an example of a function $f: \mathbb{R} \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$ such that $f(x) = f(x+1)$ for all $x \in \mathbb{R}$ and $f(x) \neq 0$ for all $x \in \mathbb{R}$?

Figure 1 consists of two schematic diagrams, (a) and (b), illustrating the experimental setup. Diagram (a) is a top-down view of a rectangular container. In the center is a circular region.
